FREW & CAMPBELL,

WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, 1876.

IRELAND desires temperance. In th British House of Commons Mr. Smyth's resolution in favor of stopping liquor carried by a majority vote of 57, or 224 Liberals against 167 Conservatives. The nover quoted the charges of Judges and other authorities to prove the increase of intoxication, while numerous petitions and memorials showed a strong desire that the public houses should be closed on Sunday. Gladstone and Bright spoke in favor of Ireland acting independently in this matter. Disraeli wanted to compromise by reducing the liquor sale to three hours in the country and five hours in the cities on Sundays, but was besten, amid loud cheers from the opposition. THE Democratic investigating committees in their anxiety to make up scandal against the administration, are ontinually making awkward discoveries. Recently the Committee on Naval Expenditures had before it a witness pamed Swift, who was a contractor for jurnishing live-oak timber to the Navy Department. He was asked whether he had ever paid any money for political purposes, and begged the committee not to press the question, as he had always been a Democrat and always expected to be. The Demograts, however, thinking they might bring out something discreditable to Secretary Robeson, insisted upon an an answer. Swift then admitted that he tries. Those who had completed all but two or three months of the time menfoots up $205,750, in addition to the $100,000 bequeathed to faithful servants and subordinates by name in Mr. Stew-art's will. Judge Hilton says he doesn't will by relatives who were left out in the cold, but he receives piles of letters every day, from almost every quarter of the globe, from people who claim relation-ceded from the Romish Church. He began with a congregation of only fifty people, which increased steadily under his work. Two years afterwards he died, and the Rev. Henry C. Riley, a Chilianpeople, which increased steadily under his work. Two years afterwards he died, and the Rev. Henry C. Riley, a Chilianborn clergyman of the Episcopal Church, came to Mexico and took up Aguilar's work with such success that the Roman Catholics became alarmed. A Dominican friar, Maniuel Aguas, a man eminent for his learning and piety, was selected to offset the influence of Mr. Riley, but before he had labored long he himself became a sincere Protestant, and commenced an aggressive warfare against the Catholic Church, accusing it of idiary. Ha was excommunication was elected Bishop of the Protestant Church at San Jose de Gracia. He was never consecrated, however, and died in 1871. Under Mr. Riley's active labors, fifty little congregations have been organized, and, as in Mexico, the Protestants are under the protection of the law, it is probable that Protestantism will rapidly increase, notwithstanding the hatred and malice of the Catholic Church towards these little congrega-

The Church in Spain.

The Church in Spain.

The Mairid correspondent of the London Times under date of May 9 say:

Yesterday the walls of the Lower House of the Spanish Corta listened to the time-honored pleas in favor of religious intolerance, marshalled by Senor Moyano, the Moderado orator. He urged that Spain's greatness was achieved under the strict rule of the Papacy, that the will of the Pontiff ought to be law to her still. To day a fresher air swept through the througed House. The lady of fashion, the stateman of every shade of political feeling, the whole diplomatic bodies, the aning stranger, listened for two hours and a half, enthralted by the eloquence, and hanging upon every word of the great craor, Emilio Castelar. He said, speaking from his own place: "From the day when the elements of human matter rose with them spirit and heart and conscience, that spirit you can not curb, that conscience you can not shall be provided the state of the provisions of the chart was a spirit you can not curb, that conscience you can not shall be provided the state has ever—in the pages of Divine or human nistory go and seek it—aought to bind down the conscience of men; Pharaoh, who representative, through seeking to do this, wetted his hands in the blood of the Spreiger Obe. New the of worship on Moses and the Jews; Pf-late, the State representative, through seeking to do this, wetted his hands in the blood of the Spotless One; Nero, the Cossack of the Don, King Henry YIII. and his harlot Parliament, Charles IV— all these, powers of the State, committed a like fatal error; and how do their names you cannot do it. The State and the con-science are two great powers, but they are separate entities, and each has its own work in the universe. The State is the representative of authority to enforce what is morally and legally clearly right; but the conscience has a higher, finer, keener task to perform.

CONSCIENCE UNCOERCIBLE.

Conscience, brother deputies, is unc Conscience, orother deputies, is insercible, is inviolable; you may persuade, but never can you coerce it by force. Sirs, I cliarge no one with desiring to bring back the cursed age of torments, the horrors of the Inquisition, the street and altar smeared with innocent blood; inay, but, sirs, i change you wan it as from fear—fear lest their children should be illegitimate, fear, lest their rights of citizenship be taken from them, fear lest when dead their bones should not on some dunghill or in the Campo. You say, "the state undertakes to support the Roman Catholic religion and its ministers." Well, I give that creed due honor; I own its beauty and its force and its antiquity. And you say, "This is the true religion." Sirs, you are no groom as to say, "This is the true religion." Sirs, you are no groom as to say, "This is the true religion." Sirs, you will surely say, 'This is true because, and only because it is imposed by human law and force of armis? Nay, sirs, you will surely say, 'This is true because, and only because it recommends itself to your heart and conscience as the true one; and, if so, why do you want a human law to force you to follow that which your conscience tells you is true? Are you alraid of a rival? Sirs, you do an honor to Protestantism if you think it so true as to be able, in a fair race, to outrue Catholicism. But if it be not true, this religion of the state—if it be not true, this religion of the state—if it be not true, the prother Deputies, what then? Monan Catholic creed be true, it will prevail by force of truit, if Protestantism Beitrue, it will prevail, and you can not crush it. If this liberty of conscience be off God you can not, if of man you need not, crush it. Protestantism and Catholicism have both tried to coerce. Look at their failure in the fall of Felipe II, in the history of England under the Tudors and James II.

Sirs, I have appealed to history; I have dors and James 11.

AN APPEAL TO PATRIOTISM.

Sira, I have appealed to history; I have appealed to your conscience; now I make my appeal to your patriotism. Do you make the campaign of Governor Morey (Dem.) in New Hampshire, $500 to the campaign expenses of Governor Tilden, and $500 to the campaign expenses of Governor English (Dem.) At this point the committee stopped him and dropped the subject.

Mil. Strwart's Will and Mounners, —The bequests which the late A. T. Stewart directed should be paid to employes who had been long in his service $1,000 apiece to all who had been inhis employ for 20 years, and $500 to every one who had served him 10 years, with additional sums in exceptional cases where special services had been rendered—have all been paid, and the "roll of honor" contains 297 names, of whom 231 of the number live in foreign countries. Those who had been inforcing name to be a significant to the service of the number live in foreign countries. Those who had completed all but these results of the line was stolen; but it was no three him to years, with additional sums in exceptional cases where special services had been rendered—have all been paid, and the "roll of honor" contains 297 names, of whom 231 of the number live in foreign countries. Those who had completed all but these works and the server of the server had been in Ilaberty, in English in this is not there. He has risen in Ilaberty, in English in this is not there in the point had the reput to a store the proper and to the large to the proper and to the large to the proper and to the had risen. He is not there is not t erty, in Equality, in Fraternity, in the punishment of John Brown, in the mar-tyribm of Lincoln. Lot the chain they break, and they find and fulfill truth and toots up $205,750, in addition to the ternal justice. Brother Deputies go to $100,000 bequeathed to faithful servants and subordinates by name in Mr. Stewarts will. Judge Hilton asys he doesn't conscience; persuade, and seek not to know anything about an assault on the will by relatives who were left out in the man, and not God, has forged and is forg-ing. globe, from people who claim relationship with the dead merchant of searer or remoter degree, and want their share of the property sent on at once. Mrs. Stewart has received about 4,000 begging letters since her husband's death, and Judge Hilton some 8,000, and he says the grief of many of the applicants over the merchant's death reminds him of Mark Twain weeping over the tomb of Adam.

The New York Times in a long leading article calls attention to the fact that there is now for the first time the germ of a native Protestant church in Mexico, and that being Episcopal in its form and discipline, it will probably have before long a Bishop consecrated by the authority of the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church of the United States. The movement, it appears, was started about ten years ago, during Maxfmillian/ardie, by a priest named Aguilar, who had second from the Bonnich Church. He be a proper to the Mexico and the United States ago, during Maxfmillian/ardie, by a priest named Aguilar, who had second from the Bonnich Church. She remarked, by way of preface, that, being a Quaker by birth and education, she didn't know as she could even read a hymn, but she made ont to, nevertheless, and also wore her pull-back and jewels as gracefully as if she had been one of the world's people.

"Why, of course. You can't run a refrigerator without ice can you?"

The farmer turned without a word, walked down stairs and out to his wagon; and was getting in, when the hardware man hurried up and asked:

"What's the matter?"

"Do you think I'm a four-cornered fool?" howledthe agriculturalist. "Do you think I'm going to buy that high-pariced provision asylum and then keep ice, too?"

They say that Poole, the great tailor, it a moral. Now that we are no long-paryen, now that we are one hundred years old and have a world's fair all to ourselves, can we not afford to spend less money at Poole's and wear old clothes? I've heard so much about the extrava-gancs of American women that I take infinite comfort in telling them what vain spendthrifts the men are.
